Krah Community

The Krah Community is an open network, where the customers of Krah can communicate with each other. In different ways technical know-how, application and machinery experience can be exchanged. All technical papers, guidelines, manuals, related to the krah technology are available for download. A large database of pictures is placed at the customers' disposal.

With Krah technology you are not on your own, but you join a network of specialists and world-wide well-known pipe producers.
